Alma Mater

by Louis Corson

Alma, our Alma Mater,
The home of Mountaineers.
Sing we of thy honor,
Everlasting through the years.
Alma, our Alma Mater,
We pledge in song to you.
Hail, all hail, our Alma Mater,
West Virginia “U”.
Congratulations from President Gee

December 2020

Commencement is a life-changing milestone, and it is truly disappointing that we cannot celebrate this moment together.

While the COVID pandemic has presented challenges unique in West Virginia University history, they reminds us of the many hardships that 200,000 Mountaineers have overcome—from wars, to economic depressions, to national tragedies—while completing their education.

Grit and determination have seen you through to graduation and will continue to sustain you during this difficult time. But, as the word “commencement” implies, your real journey is only now beginning. Better days lie ahead, and you will help us reach them.

Life is about finding your purpose and making sure your choices serve that purpose. Is your goal healing this sick? Inspiring others with your artistic vision? Shattering the status quo with the next high-tech innovation?

Whatever path you choose, Mountaineer perseverance will guide you to ever-higher summits.

The unique skills and strengths you honed here will drive you onward.

The hopes and goodwill of 200,000 other West Virginia University graduates will accompany you.

And your own inner calling will lead you to the perfect destination.

Your purpose is calling. A brighter future is dawning.

Let’s go!

Sincerely,

E. Gordon Gee
President, West Virginia University

Commencement Speaker

Brad D. Smith is the former CEO of Intuit and co-founder of The Wing 2 Wing Foundation. He currently serves as Intuit’s executive chairman of the Board of Directors and is chairman of Nordstrom’s Board of Directors, and a sitting member of the Board of Directors of SurveyMonkey.

Smith led Intuit’s transformation from a North American desktop software company to a global, cloud-based product and platform company, proving himself as a leader capable of the necessary flexibility to thrive in today’s tech landscape.

By the conclusion of Smith’s 11-year tenure as Intuit’s CEO, he nearly doubled the company’s revenue and increased its stock price more than 500%, while accumulating a robust list of annual “Best Places to Work” awards and accolades.

In 2018, Smith announced that he was leaving his CEO role at Intuit. Shortly after, he co-founded The Wing 2 Wing Foundation with his wife, Alys.

The organization’s goal is to advance the great equalizers of education and entrepreneurship in regions where individuals and communities have been overlooked and underserved. In doing so, they strive to champion human dignity and unleash human potential.

Smith received his BA in marketing from Marshall University in 1986, followed by his MA in leadership development from Aquinas College in 1991.

He currently resides in Menlo Park, CA.
Dear Statler College of Engineering and Mineral Resources Class of 2020,

On behalf of the Statler College, congratulations on this outstanding achievement! It is always a great day when we have the opportunity to celebrate the accomplishments of our students! To say this has been a challenging year is an understatement, but in spite of that, you have remained dedicated and focused to your education.

As much as graduation is a very personal achievement, today, we also celebrate the friends, family members, loved ones, and mentors who supported and encouraged you along this journey. Although this time has forced us apart, I believe that it has also unified us. Concluding your academic journey during these uncertain times is the ultimate accomplishment and I couldn’t be more proud of each and every one of you.

I want to thank you for your resilience, your flexibility and your patience as we navigated these unchartered waters together. We have all learned a lot about ourselves and pushed ourselves to new lengths, and these lessons will be critical for your future.

I truly believe that the Class of 2020 has the chance to make a significant impact in our society. Now more than ever, this world needs your talent, courage and determination to make a difference. With the tools and skills that you have acquired from our college, you have the opportunity to chart a new course and to be the leaders we need.

At the Statler College, we strive to uphold the importance of education, celebrate diversity, and remember to always treat one another with respect. I hope that you hold these values close to you and carry them with you as you navigate your own path in life. Although this is a celebration of the end of your academic journey, it is also the moment when a new chapter of your life is beginning. Each one of you has left your mark on the Statler College and I look forward to seeing the mark you leave on our world.

For today, though, I hope that you find a moment to enjoy the fruits of your labor as cheerfully as our circumstances allow. This is a major milestone in your life, and you deserve to savor this moment. I hope you always have WVU in your heart and remain a proud member of the Statler College family. Stay well and I wish you all the best!

Let’s go!

Though we cannot gather to celebrate your tremendous achievement, I want you to know that we are proud of you. We are proud of how you have developed, grown and inspired. Your college career has ended during one of the most significant disruptions in modern history. While we are still in the midst of this time, I hope you take a moment to reflect on how you are now ready to be a needed catalyst for change in our society.

Being a catalyst for change is a large part of what we do in the arts. We reflect the present, the past and project possible futures. During your lifetimes the historic events of September 11, 2001; Hurricane Katrina; a nation divided and now a true pandemic occurred. These are the events that will shape history and your generation. As those with a grounding in the arts who are still developing your path, you are the ones chosen (by history) to reflect the culture of these times. Whatever your primary area of focus is, you are imbedded in the arts. And for those imbedded in the arts, one of our greatest charges is to capture the shifts in society. Great social upheavals are accompanied by great artistic movements. In the previous century alone, the periods around the world wars, the civil rights movement, and the Aids crisis were catalysts that led to incredible artistic contributions. Like the current pandemic, these were awful times for society. Those are the times when we as artists must be at our best, our most sincere.

I wish we could meet in person, share hugs and selfies. That will happen, but that moment is not now. Now is the time for you to bask in the glory of achievement. Now is the time to know that we are proud of you. Now is the time to know we will miss you (which is why you need to visit). And now is the time to reflect on the feelings you will always have when you hear Country Roads.

Congratulations and get to work, the world needs you!

Dear Graduates of the College of Education and Human Services,

Although we are not able to celebrate together in person, I speak for the entire faculty and staff of the College of Education and Human Services when I say that we are incredibly proud of your achievements and wish you great success and happiness as you move forward. You are in our thoughts as you turn your tassels, wherever you may be.

I congratulate you on the culmination of all your hard work and dedication. You are committed, compassionate, collaborative, and well-prepared. The friendships you’ve formed, lessons you’ve learned, and values you’ve shaped will be with you as you take the next step in your life’s journey.

The late Nelson Mandela noted that “Education is the most powerful weapon you can use to change the world.” I hope that you will always remember that a better future is yours to create. In these uncertain and everchanging times, you have the unique opportunity to reshape our world using all that you’ve learned here. The need for educators and helping professionals who can improve the lives of others is greater than ever before, and although your chosen professions may look different now than they did even a few months ago, I am confident that you are prepared for whatever challenges are ahead.

Thank you for choosing WVU and CEHS. Thank you for respecting and embracing what our faculty offered – and thank you for teaching us in turn. Know that we hope to hear from you in the future. It is a privilege to learn of the adventures of our alumni, to travel beside you in spirit, and to welcome you back on many and varied returns.

So please keep your sincerity, integrity, kindness and resilience – and remember wherever you go, you will always be a Mountaineer.

Stay safe and be well.

Dear College of Law Graduates,

Commencement is a day of celebration, reflection, and hope: celebration of your accomplishments, reflection on your journey to this point, and hope for a bright future. On behalf of the faculty, staff, and alumni of the College of Law, I congratulate you on your graduation from law school. On this day, you join generations of proud alumni who have used their legal educations to lead satisfying and productive lives of professional service. I have no doubt you will be worthy bearers of that tradition. Today is your day. Enjoy it, because you have earned it!

You have much to celebrate. Law school is not easy. Periods of self-doubt and struggle are inevitable. You persevered through all the challenges of law school, plus the additional challenges of a global pandemic. You have every right to be proud of yourselves. I hope that you are and that remembering what you accomplished on this day will give you strength in the future when you need it. I know your families and friends are immensely proud of you, and so are we.

Today is also a day to reflect on your time on Law School Hill. You have learned much about yourselves, and you have made friendships that will last a lifetime. You have become a part of our College of Law family, and we are eager to support you in any way we can in the future.

Your hopes and dreams brought you to law school, and they carried you through law school. I hope your futures will unfold smoothly and brightly. At the same time, none of us knows where the future will lead us. All we can do is prepare ourselves to be ready to walk through whatever doors are opened to us and to seize opportunities with open minds and spirits. We are confident you are ready to contribute no matter where your journeys take you.

I wish that we could be with you to celebrate this day in person, but there will be an opportunity to do that in due time, and hopefully sooner rather than later. I know you are going to serve your clients well and to make the world a little more just every day. It’s been a privilege to have you with us.

Good luck, and keep in touch!

Best wishes,

John E. Taylor

Dear College of Physical Activity and Sport Sciences Class of 2020,

On behalf of the faculty, staff, students and alumni from the College of Physical Activity and Sport Sciences, I would like to congratulate you on your graduation from CPASS and WVU. This is a wonderful accomplishment and I know you have many amazing adventures ahead of you. Let this graduation be one of numerous steps along your journey of professional growth, development and personal fulfillment. By graduating from CPASS you are joining an illustrious list of alumni from the last 88 years.

I hope that you count your years within CPASS as some of the best times of your life. You have been supported by world class faculty and staff. They have dedicated themselves to providing you with the best possible educational experience and have pushed you to find the best version of yourself. I’m sure that you have made many forever friendships with people who will support you throughout your life. Together, these people and experiences will help you be successful in life.

I know that your last year in CPASS did not go as planned, nevertheless our college remains a strong family. In the spirit of true Mountaineers, we have come together to overcome the difficulties presented to us by COVID-19 and have emerged stronger for it. We have learned life lessons of resilience, strength, compassion, curiosity and self-discovery. I hope that you will use these lessons to help you enter the next phase of your life’s journey as a more nimble, powerful and creative person.

It has been my pleasure to have been a part of your educational journey. I am extremely proud of each of you. Always wear your old gold and blue with pride and make the world a better place by promoting the fundamental values of our college: Application of knowledge; Diversity, Equity and Inclusion; Collaboration and Discovery; Community Engagement; and Well-being.

Celebrate today with those close to you and don’t forget to thank your parents, friends and family for their support and encouragement. I hope that you have treasured your time in CPASS as much as we have loved having you as a student within our college.

Continue to look for those country roads that take you home to Morgantown. And when you do return, know that you are always welcome within CPASS.

Let’s Go Mountaineers!

Sincerely,

Graduates,

You have learned and experienced a great many things during your education here at West Virginia University. You’ve adapted to a changing landscape impressively. The highest congratulations are in order. Today, you have shown yourselves to be true Mountaineers. You’ve made it to the top of a mountain.

As the famous children’s author Dr. Seuss wrote:

“Onward up many a frightening creek, though your arms may get sore and your sneakers may leak. On and on you will hike, And I know you’ll hike far and face up to your problems whatever they are. ...You’re off to Great Places! Today is your day! Your mountain is waiting, So... get on your way!”

Mountaineers, your next mountain is waiting.

It’s a funny thing about mountains. Everyone wants to move or climb them; they see them as obstacles to be conquered or overcome.

But mountains were never meant to be conquered. They were meant to be explored. They were meant to fascinate and open our eyes to new places and ways.

A mountain holds trees and trails, difficulties and darkness, flowers and springs. It holds the entirety of a journey, of time well-spent and life well-lived. It’s exciting - and it should be. It’s terrifying - and it should be.

Remember those trees and trails, the difficulties and darkness, flowers and springs. Remember the all-nighters, the 20- page papers, the F’s and A’s, the C- presentations. Looking down on it from the mountaintop, it’s beautiful, isn’t it? The funny thing is, it always was.

Oh, the places you’ve been.

What you’re looking at now is the next mountain, the beginning of a glorious climb. It looks enormous, majestic, full of trees and trails, difficulties and darkness, flowers and springs.

One day, probably when you’re on the top of this next mountain, you’ll look back and see the beauty of it all. Rather, I hope that day is today. As you press onto the next challenge, the next mountain, I hope you go forth understanding what you’re about to face will be and is now beautiful. Oh, the places you will go.

Congratulations, graduates. Congratulations, Mountaineers. You’re off to great places. Today is your day. Your next mountain is waiting, So... get on your way!

Dear Eberly College of Arts and Sciences Graduates:

It is my distinct pleasure to congratulate you on achieving this most important educational achievement. Please know that the entire Eberly Community is so very proud of what you have accomplished. A college education, whether undergraduate or graduate, is a special gift. It is a gift that you have rightfully earned through hard work, perseverance, and sacrifice. It is a gift that brings you joy and satisfaction. It is a gift that can open an array of opportunities for you, as well as have a wonderful impact for those around you. So much is possible for you with this gift, but you must remember to use it. Certainly, you will apply your knowledge so that you may achieve personal and professional goals, but also use your education to serve others, to better your communities, and to make the world a better place.

Earning a college degree is challenging under the best of circumstances. However, you have completed your studies in 2020; one of the most turbulent and troubling times in recent memory. You have endured an unprecedented public health crisis over the past year which has, for many of you, disrupted your studies and created a number of challenges for attaining your degree. Despite the COVID pandemic’s devastating impact on the health and well-being of our population and that it has interrupted many of our everyday activities which bring us happiness and fulfillment, it has surely taught us a few things. First and foremost, we have learned that you are among the most resilient individuals there are. Regardless of the challenges that have been placed in front of you, you have met them head on and succeeded. You have shown ingenuity, flexibility, and tenacity. You have grit! This pandemic proves that going forward we will need people like you. Individuals who have the skills necessary to take on our nation’s challenges and the desire and commitment to make a difference. When I consider all that you can accomplish with your education from West Virginia University, I feel very optimistic.

Today is a time to celebrate both your achievements and to consider the great possibilities that lie before you. Remember whatever you do and wherever you go, West Virginia University and the Eberly College will be part of you. We can’t wait to see what you will accomplish.

Dear Class of 2020,

Today, a new journey begins.

Even if you don’t know exactly where that journey will take you, know that you are ready for it because of what you’ve learned during your years at West Virginia University.

Each of you learned more than you ever bargained for in 2020 – and you learned it fast. In the true pioneering spirit of the Chambers College, you pivoted and successfully learned to navigate the unexpected.

Most importantly, you learned resiliency, compassion and empathy. There is nothing more important than taking care of each other and lending each other strength when our world is full of uncertainty.

Those aren’t the lessons you sign up for when you came to West Virginia University for New Student Orientation. You registered for a biology course, a math course, an English course, never knowing that the greatest – and often, the hardest – lessons come from the unplanned moments that test our resolve.

Each of you have persevered through some of the most difficult days our world has faced in your lifetime with strength and grit. No other generation is going to be as ready as you to face your future – a future that will, undoubtedly, be full of change.

I often say that our Chambers College students are the future of work, and that’s never been more true than it is today. I realize that it may be difficult to think about the future, as the uncertainty of the world is heavy right now. What is certain is that there will be a future, and that future needs you. It needs your perseverance, your energy and your adaptability. It needs your hope and your aspirations to change the world for the better. It needs you to be the next generation of creators, entrepreneurs and business leaders who will confront the problems of today and solve the problems of tomorrow. It needs you to value and champion diversity so that you can break through barriers and do impossible things – and so that you can inspire others to do impossible things, too.

The jobs of tomorrow will favor those who are prepared to innovate and adapt on their feet. Chambers College students are well-prepared to do just that, as you have risen to the challenge together of navigating through the final year of your college education with flexibility and tenacity.

Each of you has a blank slate in front of you, and that will give you the ability to transform business. Companies will be rethinking how they work, and they will look to this generation to make an impact and shape a new course for all functional areas of business and organizations.

My hope is that you never stop dreaming big. Know that I am so proud of each and every one of you, and I can’t wait to hear how you’re changing the world.

Go out there and do the impossible – it’s what Mountaineers do best!

Best wishes,

Dear Reed College of Media Class of 2020,

Congratulations! You have reached one of life’s major milestones.

Your last year with us has been unlike anything we could have imagined, and yet it in no way diminishes this accomplishment. In fact, the unexpected events of the last 10 months have likely tested you in myriad new ways and left you stronger and more resilient as a result.

As you embark on your next journey, be patient, stay positive and take comfort in knowing your College of Media experience has honed your professionalism, curiosity, determination, creativity, work ethic and intelligence. Remember that the media industry is diverse and ever-changing, and our work is more important than ever, as we help people make sense of the world, build community and make informed decisions. Work hard and find joy, purpose and motivation in your profession, knowing there will be opportunities for you to use your education and skills in new ways over the years.

You will undoubtedly face obstacles and make mistakes along the way, but don’t let that stop you from remaining curious and brave. Continue to demonstrate that media professionals are trustworthy and ethical by relying on your knowledge and experience and by listening to your heart.

I trust your time at West Virginia University has been one of self-discovery and growth, where you’ve learned what motivates and inspires you and where you have both excelled and struggled. I hope that the friendships and connections you’ve made at WVU go on to inspire you long after graduation, and I hope you’ll stay in touch.

Class of 2020, we will miss you! Remember you will always have a second home “among the hills” at the Reed College of Media and a Mountaineer family who wishes you the best.

Sincerely,

Diana Martinelli

School of Dentistry Graduates,

On behalf of the faculty, staff, and students of our school, it is with great pleasure to recognize and congratulate you on completing your programs. The journey you started just a few short years ago is now at an end. Through your tireless efforts, you negotiated a challenging academic program, which was made even more challenging for the past few months as the COVID pandemic took hold.

It would have been easy to sit back with the onset of the COVID pandemic, which began in early March, and allowed it to direct what happened to us. We did not follow that path. Our school community responded with the strength and resilience necessary to do our part as primary healthcare providers, supporting our community as it dealt with this disease. While some of you had to curtail your training, others stepped up and provided needed emergency care to patients who came to our school, as local dental offices were closed. A core group of faculty and staff during this period planned and prepared for our eventual reopening. We resumed our programs mid-May, to a new normal, with additional protocols and procedures implemented, to protect ourselves, our fellow students and residents, our faculty and staff, and our patients.

There was an immense sense of pride as our entire community stepped up and did what was needed to ensure our school could reopen safely, and resume the provision of needed patient care. We have continued in this manner since then and will do so for the foreseeable future. You and your fellow graduates displayed resilience, compassion, and the utmost professionalism during this challenging time. Without your efforts, both individual and collective, we could not have fulfilled our mission.

As you complete this part of your journey, you enter a much different practicing environment than you had envisioned when you started. Beyond the COVID pandemic, our country is dealing with racial injustice, and we are still feeling the effects of a very toxic election period. It may be a bit intimidating, and you may be anxious. While these are both healthy and logical responses to what you are facing, you should draw strength and comfort, knowing that you have received the best education and training available. Our school accepted you into our program because you represent the best. We provided you a positive and supportive environment allowing you to learn and grow, which you did. Now is the time to draw courage and conviction from your training as you venture out into this very different environment, presenting a host of both challenges and opportunities.

In closing, I do not want to forget to thank your families, who provided you the necessary support and love during your programs. I would also like to recognize and thank our school’s dedicated faculty and staff, who mentored and guided you during the past few years. Graduates of the West Virginia University School of Dentistry, on behalf of the entire School of Dentistry community, I want to offer you heartfelt congratulations and best wishes as you embark on the next chapter of your professional journey. Let’s Go!

It’s not quite as you pictured it, this moment in time. The celebration that is the culmination of your years of hard work looks different than what you have imagined.

It feels different. It is different.

The Japanese scholar Kakuzo Okakura once said, “The art of life lies in the constant readjustment to our surroundings.”

As healers and problem solvers, we know this to be true. The answer to a problem is rarely cut and dry. More often than not, we must start by eliminating possibilities and adjusting our perceptions, then reassessing our patients, lab samples or research hypothesis before finding the answer.

The search for the answer is the true process of medicine.

It’s the lessons you’ve learned in the classroom. It’s the techniques you’ve applied in the clinic. It’s the relationships you’ve developed with mentors and peers. It’s knowing that you are more powerful when you work together and problem-solve as a team.

I know many of you are ready to set forth, degree in hand, to tackle today’s biggest problem – the global coronavirus pandemic. You will be serving in various capacities, supporting society and caring for people in new ways.

As a parent, I also know some of you reading this letter are family members. You sit with an equal mixture of admiration that your loved one was called to this field, but also with the fear of what the future holds for your newly minted healthcare provider.

We are currently in a phase shift of change. Phase shifting is moving from one stable state to another. Like water to ice or steam, depending on what kind of energy you inject into the system.

We are phase shifting from a world of fear and scarcity to one of love and abundance. I believe crisis breeds compassion.

While it may not seem this way right now, we can feel the groundswell of change and a new energy that is being contributed by many on earth.

Through this series of changes, there are new openings to commit ourselves to collaboration and community. To wholeness and unity.

I trust in the training our graduates have received to become not only healthcare providers, but “whole” care providers.

I trust you – the graduate. I know you understand safety and wellness. You have learned valuable life lessons that will serve you well not only in times of great uncertainty and change, but in the moments when you have time to be and to breathe.

This day of commencement, this day of celebration is such a moment. Be. Breathe. Celebrate.

“Let us never consider ourselves finished nurses … we must be learning all of our lives.” — Florence Nightingale

Dear School of Nursing graduates,

In 1960, the WVU School of Nursing was established with the goals of providing a university-level degree in nursing and to help meet the needs for nursing in the state. How far we’ve come in 60 years — and you have been a part of it!

This is an extraordinary time for nursing. The need for experienced, skilled and talented nurses, at all levels, has never been greater. In recent weeks, we have seen our colleagues on the front lines of an unprecedented pandemic. They are rising to the challenge because, simply put, that is what nurses do.

Ironically, 2020 was named the International Year of the Nurse by the World Health Organization in celebration of Florence Nightingale’s 200th birthday. It was planned long before our current health crisis and seems fitting, especially now.

For our new graduates, I am sure you are anxious to see what the future holds. I am more than confident you are ready for anything that comes your way. You have had some of the best nurses in the country as your instructors and the long days and nights, the clinical shifts in person and online have prepared you well.

For our graduate students who are receiving another nursing degree, the healthcare system needs your leadership now more than ever. Whether teaching future nurses, making innovative changes as a nurse executive, impacting change at a governmental level or helping our communities stay healthy, your experience will benefit generations to come.

Congratulations on your graduation and this outstanding achievement! On behalf of the entire School of Nursing, I wish you continued success in your nursing careers. We are honored to have played a part.

Sincerely,

Congratulations Graduates,

On behalf of the faculty and staff of the School of Pharmacy, we are incredibly proud of your accomplishments and very excited for you to begin the next phase in your career path. We are indebted to your loved ones, as you undoubtedly are as well, for helping you through this journey.

Commencement is a special occasion and every year, our faculty look forward to honoring both individual and collective accomplishments, thus we will dearly miss celebrating with you in person at this time.

In some ways, commencement marks the culmination of your journey at the School of Pharmacy and the Health Sciences Center, but it also signifies a time to look forward to the exciting opportunities that lie ahead. Now, more than ever, the public and the health care environment need your innovation, leadership and collaborative skills. So, do not be fearful of challenges and believe in yourselves.

Perhaps your greatest test going forward will be to find the area of research/practice that is most rewarding for you and beneficial to society, consistent with the roots of your degree from a land-grant institution. Events of the past few months have certainly shone a bright light on science and its ability to bring enormous intellectual resources to identify, combat and prevent health problems. You are the future of generation of new ideas that will improve the health of many.

You certainly need to have persistence to earn your doctorate degree, particularly navigating the choppy waters of the pandemic on the way to your finish! I am sure your mentors have instilled in your minds to not be afraid of failure, for you cannot have success without it. You have learned many concepts and skills to facilitate success in the future, but your ability to best utilize them will require persistence on your part.

Never forget your “home amongst the hills” as we will always be here to encourage your professional growth, commiserate in not so good times and celebrate in your successes.

We certainly look forward to seeing you at national meetings and or our School of Pharmacy alumni events.

Be safe, congratulations and best of luck in the road ahead.

Sincerely,

William (Bill) Petros, PharmD, FCCP

Dear Graduates,

Today marks a bittersweet day in your academic career. As disappointed as I am to not be with you in person to celebrate your graduation from the School of Public Health, it does not diminish how proud I am of your accomplishments. You and your fellow graduates have faced an unprecedented wave of challenges this year, yet responded with innovative relentlessness, responsibility and fortitude – defining characteristics of a Mountaineer that will no doubt serve you well in every aspect of your life, especially as a public health professional.

As you graduate, the entire world now understands the importance of public health. This pandemic has amplified a core fundamental of public health: good health is not simply a matter of choice or a matter of genetics. Rather, it is impacted by the conditions in which people live, work and play, and you have made the choice to dedicate yourself to improving those conditions.

Today, you join your fellow WVU Public Health alumni in a profession that deeply believes that good health is not a privilege of the few, but is a basic human right for all people – regardless of their socioeconomic status, race, ethnicity, religion, gender identity, sexual orientation or country of origin.

Coupled with my feeling proud of your successes is a deep sense of gratitude to the “village” that helped you arrive at today’s milestone. To our faculty and staff; the family members and friends of our graduates; and the many partners across our state and beyond: thank you for investing in our students. Your guidance, support and mentorship have grown this class of students to graduates, and I’m confident the return on your investment will be immeasurable.

On behalf of the faculty and staff in the School of Public Health, I extend my congratulations and wish you continued success as you advance to the next chapter of your life, whether that’s advancing in your academic journey or taking that first step in your career. I speak on behalf of all of my Health Sciences colleagues when I tell you there is no greater reward than seeing each of you succeed.

Wherever your next step leads, continue following your dreams – never losing sight of the golden rule of life – and follow the path upstream to make your community, state and world a better place.

Congratulations, Class of 2020!

Best wishes,

Jeff Coben, M.D.

Congratulations, Graduates!

You did it. After years of hard work and dedication, you’ve earned your degree from West Virginia University. On behalf of the WVU Alumni Association, I applaud you for reaching this significant milestone.

Your years of hard work and dedication have finally paid off. After many sleepless nights, stressful final exams, and your fair share of Zoom classes, you have earned your degree from West Virginia University. On behalf of the WVU Alumni Association, I applaud you for reaching this significant milestone.

I sincerely wish that I could be writing to you under more traditional circumstances. It has become something of a cliché to say that we are living in “uncertain times,” but it is no less far from the truth. Though you may have experienced a final semester unlike any before it, the resiliency and adaptability the Class of 2020 will never be forgotten.

You will soon learn that your West Virginia University experience does not end with graduation; a part of your alma mater will always be with you. When you see a flying WV on a car in the parking lot or when you pass someone wearing a WVU hat in the airport, you will feel an overwhelming sense of pride for being a part of something bigger. You are a Mountaineer for life.

As you embark on the next phase of your life during this time of trial and uncertainty, carry with you the lessons of the past few months. If the COVID-19 global pandemic has taught us anything, it is that we cannot take what we have for granted. We must appreciate our family, friends, and loved ones more than ever. We must be flexible in the face of adversity, and we must be caring for the sake of the vulnerable amongst us. There is strength in unity. You are now a part of a growing community of more than 200,000 Mountaineers across the globe, and I assure you that wherever country roads may lead you next, your alumni family will be there to tackle whatever challenge you face next. You will always have your Mountaineer family that has grown over the course of your time here, and you will always have the people at the Alumni Association to support you on the journey ahead.

To help you stay connected, we are providing you with a complimentary year of membership to the WVU Alumni Association as a graduation gift. I encourage you to join your local alumni chapter, engage with fellow Mountaineers on WVU Connect (wvuconnect.com), and take advantage of our valuable services and communications that will continue your connection with West Virginia University. You can learn more about your year of free membership to the WVU Alumni Association and how we serve you by visiting alumni.wvu.edu.

I am proud of you and your fellow graduates, and I am eager to help you remain connected with our alma mater.
